Very detailed, makes effort to break down difficult concepts and mathematical formulas that are complex.

- However, he seems to be ~~too~~ very busy with ~~the~~ PhD studies, and sometimes seems to be in the rush to leave after class.

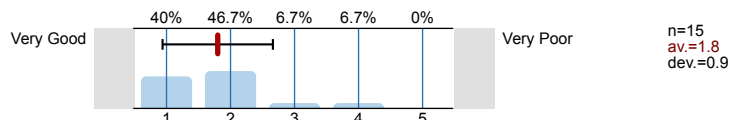

• My favourite seminar teacher, CHI FONG is very adept in communicating the main ideas in an intellectually stimulating manner. He is always on hand to resolve any issues students may have and it is my privilege to attend his class.

Particularly helpful

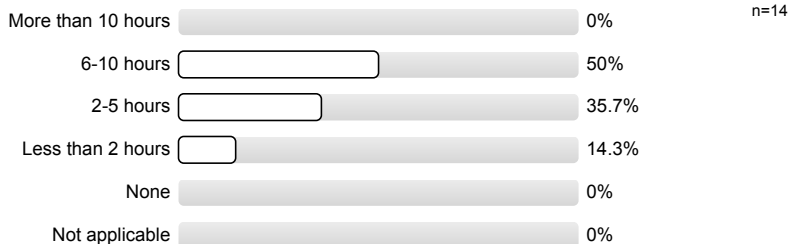

- The teacher goes through key points covered in the lecture before going through the problem set. Help to develop an understanding of the key points.

Interesting finance concepts taught that are ~~both~~ related and woven together with case study and life examples.

Very tough for me, without the necessary mathematics & background.

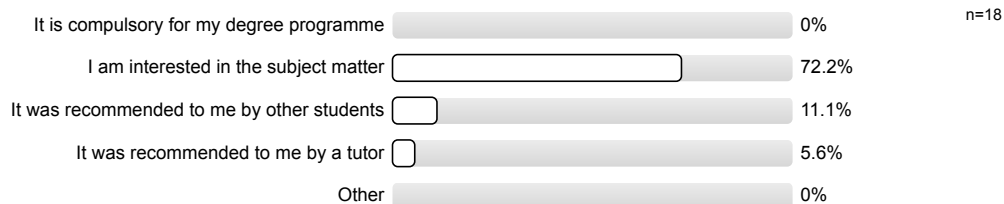

• More quantitative than I thought, but just as interesting. This course has stood out from the others that I have picked and it has opened/broadened my knowledge of risk in a hugely fascinating manner. Thankyou Yves/CHI FONG.

provided the structure and emphasis on key points, which was not given in lectures

- excellent teaching*
- you could try to get students involved a bit more*

Nothing

→ Chris is fantastic
 → Available at office hours, clear in class
 → You can tell he legitimately wants to help you learn.

Lectures were difficult to keep engaged and explanations were not clear and structured enough.
Lecture notes would be better if they were more structured.

less quantitative would be better.

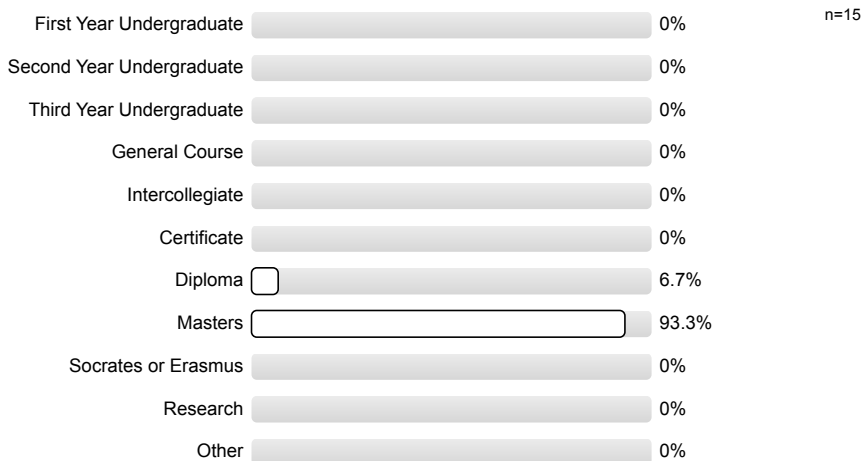

Better Problem Sets and more feedback are needed.

More Calculation examples

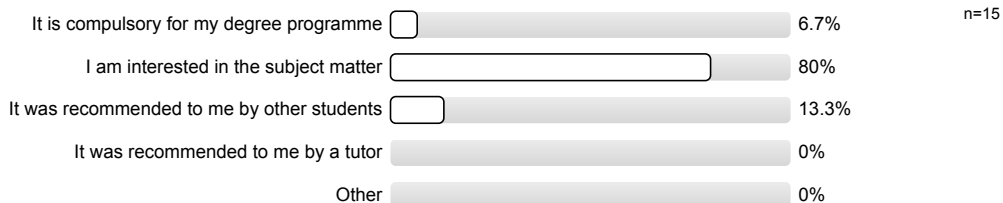

→ The professor could take steps to make the class more interactive.
→ There are too many students, hall is a bad environment to learn (dark, distant from prof.)

The teacher took a lot of effort preparing for the class and explained all the concepts very well and intuitively. He definitely improved my understanding and encourage me to explore topics further.
 (He would make an excellent lecturer in the future, if ~~not~~ indeed he did want to become one.)

Seminars should be longer and should cover the content in more depth.

Best seminar I attended at LSE

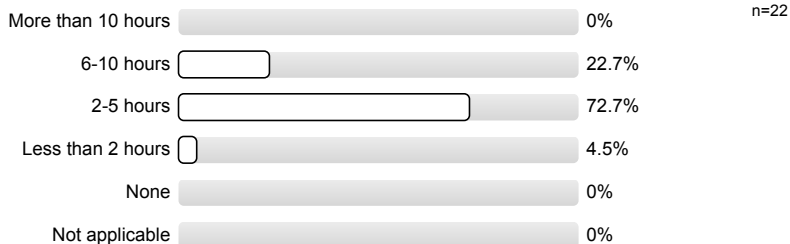

Implementation of a register.

Should be more applied. Too much theory

The lecturer should give better explanations of the topics. He should explain step by step how he derives out certain formulas.

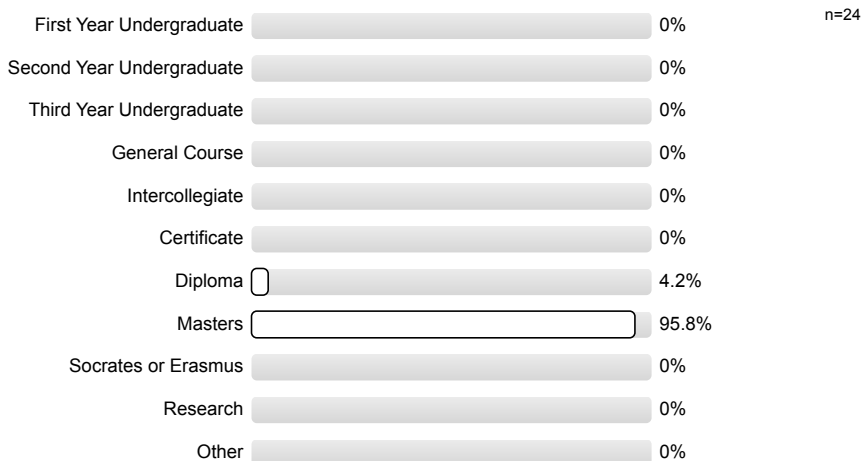

The reading list is quite broad and not everything is available in the library.

Improvement to the lecture: the teacher should speak with more enthusiasm about the subject (= not lower his voice at the end of his sentences)

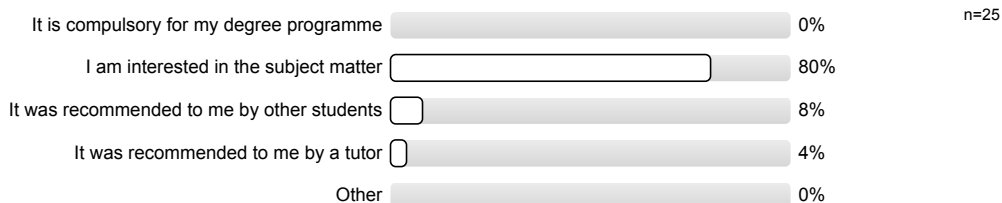

- Overcrowding in classes can get annoying especially when you can't get a seat.
  - A strict register should be used to prevent students from other classes "freely" attending classes that they are not originally assigned to.
